

The diagram consists of a single horizontal line. There are seven vertical lines of varying lengths intersecting this horizontal line at different points. The vertical lines are positioned at approximately one-quarter, one-third, one-half, two-thirds, three-quarters, and near the left and right ends of the horizontal line. The vertical lines on the left and right are shorter, while the others are of medium length.